

Chai @ IAN

24th February 2017, Mumbai

How to engage with your Board of Directors?

Taking time to ensure that each board member becomes personally invested and engaged in the mission of the organization is time well spent. When truly engaged, board members will become your organization's best ambassadors, advocates, strategists, and all around supporters. This session will provide you tips for engaging the board in development activities, which ultimately results in having an invaluable resource in your organization.

How to pitch to investors?

Appealing to people is tough. Pitching your business idea to a prospective investor is even tougher. Investors rarely have much time to give and it is important that you pique their interest from the very minute you start presenting your idea. Hands down, it will be the hardest presentation you are likely to make in your career. What better than learning the art of pitching from an investor himself.
